Midge Cramer Multi-Use Path

Oregon

The Midge Cramer Multi-Use Path begins in the east at the Benton County Fairgrounds, the site of the county's popular fair and rodeo

The Midge Cramer Multi-Use Path begins in the east at the Benton County Fairgrounds, the site of the county's popular fair and rodeo each summer, as well as other events throughout the year. The trail is named in honor of a strong bicycle advocate who taught bicycle touring at the university and served on local and state bike commissions.

The short path ends in the west at a T-junction at the entrance to the Bald Hill Natural Area, a scenic park with acres of woodlands, wetlands and native prairie. From here, you can take the Bald Hill Multi-Modal Path south to reach Reservoir Avenue, or north to Oak Creek Drive.

From the opposite end of the trail, take the Campus Way Bike Path east to reach Oregon State University.
