Carrollton GreenBelt

Georgia

The Carrollton GreenBelt is one of the crown jewels of the small Georgia community, a large greenway project that has proven to be

But more than a recreational venue, the Carrollton GreenBelt also connects numerous destinations frequented by area residents and visitors, including the University of West Georgia, Carrollton City Schools, McIntosh Plaza shopping center, Southwire Company, Sunset Hills Country Club and Maple Street Commons.

Whether you're running errands in the community or simply looking for a pleasant place for a walk or ride, the Carrollton GreenBelt is an excellent facility.

The Carrollton GreenBelt is one of the crown jewels of the small Georgia community, a large greenway project that has proven to be well-worth the effort. The nearly 18-mile paved loop runs along public easements through sites of historic interest, commercial venues, local landmarks and more, providing residents and visitors a unique escape.

The trail network connects several of the city's established neighborhoods, and runs through numerous city parks, including East Carrollton Park, Hays Mill Park, Hobbs Farm Park and Lakeshore Park, providing space for recreation and promoting a healthy lifestyle in the city. The terrain and scenery varies nicely throughout the trail while never becoming too hilly, giving the trail a much more scenic feel despite its proximity to town.
