The Peanut Trial is a distinct trail in the town of Newton that spans one-mile. This rail-trail was meant to connect to the Jay McLaren Memorial Trail. However, due to a controversial lawsuit by land owners, this segment is separate and cannot be taken all the way through to Merrimac as it was once intended. Never the less, this trail is greatly used by local residents and provides great scenery. Motor vehicles are not permitted, but you can still bike, walk, or run the path.
