Pope-Baldwin Bike Path
California

Overview The Pope-Baldwin Bike Path is one of the most popular paved trails in the scenic Lake Tahoe area, as it winds through pine end of the trail, or use Pope Beach Road to access Pope Beach, one of the more popular with families on the lake's south shore. While cars have to pay a fee to park, a bonus of using the Pope-Baldwin Bike Path is there is no fee for those on bike or foot.

The path also passes through the grounds of the historic Camp Richardson Resort, and the Tallac Historic Site, featuring three restored estates from the early 1900s, is a short trip up Heritage Way from the trail. Also accessible from the trail is the nearby Fallen Leaf Campground (and lake!). Trail users should note that there is a $10 day-use fee to access the lake.

Stop in at the Lake Tahoe (Taylor Creek) Visitor Center for more information on the local history and recreational opportunities or to stroll one of their many nature trails.

Overview

The Pope-Baldwin Bike Path is one of the most popular paved trails in the scenic Lake Tahoe area, as it winds through pine forest not far from the lakeshore near South Lake Tahoe. The trail parallels State Route 89 (Emerald Bay Road) for more than 3 miles, offering access to a number of local historic and recreational amenities.

About the Route

The trail's unique name doesn't refer to a mysterious pontiff. Instead, it references the two pristine beaches accessible via the path. Take a short ride or walk up Baldwin Beach Road to reach Baldwin Beach, situated where Tallac Creek empties into Lake Tahoe at the west
