The Sycamore Trail, which opened in October 2014, provides an important connection between two other trails in Delhi Charter

The Sycamore Trail, which opened in October 2014, provides an important connection between two other trails in Delhi Charter Township, on the south end of Lansing. At the trail's northern end, it connects to the popular Lansing River Trail and, at its southern end, it connects to the Valhalla Trail.

Its northern end, at times, parallels roadways and offers connections to shopping and dining areas. But you will also find natural beauty in the rain gardens and wetlands of Maguire Park.

The southern end of the trail offers occasional woodland cover and partially parallels an active Norfolk Southern Railroad line. Along the way, the trail offers signage that identifies wildlife footprints.
