Horsebarn Trail

Arkansas

The Horsebarn Trail runs on the western side of Rogers, linking housing complexes and businesses in the community's newer

All three of these trails are central components of the Razorback Regional Greenway, a 46-mile, primarily off-road, shared-use trail that extends from southeast Bella Vista to the southern edge of Fayetteville.

The Horsebarn Trail runs on the western side of Rogers, linking housing complexes and businesses in the community's newer Metropark development with Bentonville to the north. Horsebarn Park, situated along a branch of Osage Creek, is undoubtedly the highlight of the trail. Besides offering ample parking, restrooms and drinking fountains for trail users, the park features a popular playground and the largest rain garden in Northwest Arkansas.

A seamless connection at the trail's northern end to the South Bentonville Trail allows for a longer journey throughout the larger city, while a direct link to the Mercy Trail in Rogers provides recreational and active transportation opportunities to the south.
