Creekside Park Trails

North Carolina

The Creekside Park Trails—all paved and interconnected—span about 3 miles in Archdale and lead to residential areas and Combined, they provided a mile of trail.

The half-mile Blue Trail connects to the Green Trail, beginning at the southeastern end of the loop. It continues to the Archdale Senior Center near the T-Ball fields. Views include beautiful fields and wooded areas.

The 0.3-mile Black Trail branches off the Green Trail loop and travels to the Elkes Ridge and Rush Hollow neighborhoods.

The Creekside Park Trails—all paved and interconnected—span about 3 miles in Archdale and lead to residential areas and important points in the community.

The mile-long Cedar Trail section of the system begins in the Trindale Forest neighborhood and carries travelers by the Creekside Village neighborhood. After passing through a tunnel under Main Street, a trail spur connects residents to the Archdale Public Library, and the trail ends shortly thereafter in picturesque Creekside Park.

The Green Trail begins at the Creekside Recreation Center and forms a loop around it. The trail also features outdoor exercise equipment. A spur on the west side of the loop—called the Gray Trail—heads to Alison Lane and offers access to the Courtland Park neighborhood.
