Pere Marquette State Trail

Michigan

The Pere Marquette State Trail runs 55 miles through beautiful woodlands and fields between Baldwin and Clare. About the Route

The Pere Marquette State Trail runs 55 miles through beautiful woodlands and fields between Baldwin and Clare.

About the Route

The section between Baldwin and Reed City is about 17 miles long and has a crushed limestone surface. The trail passes nearby wetlands, showcasing wildflowers and streams, and offers trailside benches to rest and enjoy the scenery. Along the way, the trail crosses over Baldwin River and Sanborn Creek; pass by bogs, lakes, and ponds; and trek through tamarack stands and rolling fields.

Reed City is charming small town community that makes a nice rest stop with a welcome center (including bathrooms) located in the Reed City Depot. The eye-catching building is modeled after the original 1892 train station.

The section between Reed City and Ewart is about 12 miles long and is paved. Following the Hersey and Muskegon rivers, the route includes a scenic overlook with beautiful views of the Muskegon River midway between Hersey and Ewart. This portion of the trail passes farms, woodlands, and wildflowers. There is a restored rail depot in downtown Ewart, where there are also restaurants, shops, and more. Riverside Park offers options for picnicking and camping.

The section between Ewart and Claire is about 26 miles long and paved with asphalt. After crossing the Muskegon River bridge, there are two tunnels as the trail gently climbs a ridge. The trail's highest elevation is where it crosses M-66, after which it slowly decreases in elevation to pass through an area of wetlands and lakes surrounding the village of Lake Station.

The eastern end of the trail is at a public parking area in front of the Moose Lodge on M-115 in the western outskirts of Clare. Continue 2.3 miles along the shoulder on M-115 and through downtown Claire to connect to the Pere Marquette Rail-Trail.

The trail is managed by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.
