dips. While there is greenery all around, much of the trail is not shaded so users should be dress appropriately and stay hydrated, especially in the sunny summer months.

This trail is an 8-mile long winding pathway stretching from north to south along 144th Street (State Route 50). It is an important route for both recreation and transportation, providing safe connections to schools, businesses and residential neighborhoods. It also connects residents of these western Omaha neighborhoods to valuable open spaces, like Standing Bear Lake, with its own walking and biking loop; and the Wehrspann Lake and Chalco Hills Recreation Area, with an additional 6 miles of multipurpose pathway, aside from other recreation opportunities like fishing, picnicking and flying radio-controlled airplanes.

For those seeking a challenge, the 144th Street trail provides it through its topography. The trail follows the grade of the roadway, including all its demanding lifts and
