Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy Greenway

Massachusetts

Boston's Rose Kennedy Greenway may not be very long, but it's jam-packed with attractions. Along this 1.5 mile contemporary neighborhoods, including Chinatown, the Financial District, Waterfront, and North End. It's named for Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy, who was born in North End and was mother to President John F. Kennedy, Senator Robert F. Kennedy, and Senator Ted Kennedy.

The Rose Kennedy Greenway sits on the site of the a former elevated expressway, which was demolished as part of the Central Artery/ Tunnel Project, commonly known as the Big Dig. The Greenway Conservancy is the non-profit responsible for the management and care of The Greenway.

Boston's Rose Kennedy Greenway may not be very long, but it's jam-packed with attractions. Along this 1.5 mile contemporary public park, you can access amazing organically-maintained gardens, be wowed by rotating public art, stop to smell the flowers in trailside gardens, ride the custom Greenway Carousel, and visit historical landmarks like the Paul Revere House. Feeling peckish? Grab a bite to eat or drink at the various food trucks, markets, and beer gardens.

Note that the Greenway is for pedestrian use only, but the city streets either side of the linear park have marked on-road bike lanes. The Greenway has a number of bike racks available for public use.
