

2024

TrailLink Unlimited 🔯

Guides 🕫 🤝

Third Creek Greenway

Tennessee

The Third Creek Greenway is a paved pedestrian and bike path in West Knoxville that mostly lies within a wooded riparian corridor.

The Third Creek Greenway is a paved pedestrian and bike path in West Knoxville that mostly lies within a wooded riparian corridor. The trail happens to connect to three other trails: Bearden Village Greenway to the east, Sequoyah Greenway to the south and Neyland Greenway to the southwest.

From the park of the same name, the Third Creek Greenway runs east, across S. Concord St. then bends, curving around the perimeter of Tyson Park. There is a crossing underneath Alcoa Highway and then the path snakes through the University of Tennessee Gardens. Another underpass takes you under Joe Johnson Dr. to Neyland Dr. where the trail's terminus is found.

States: Tennessee Counties: Knox Length: 2.74miles

Trail end points: Near University of Tennessee Gardens to Intersection of Cherokee Blvd and

Kingston Pike

Trail surfaces: Asphalt

Trail category: Greenway/Non-RT

Trail activities: Bike, Inline

Skating, Wheelchair Accessible, Walking

Parking & Trail Access

There are numerous parking options available: Third Creek Park (3110 Sutherland Ave.), Tyson Park (2351 Kingston Pike), Sutherland Drive, Laurel Church of Christ on Kingston Pike.

Third Creek Greenway Tennessee

