Neyland Greenway

Tennessee

Across the First Creek Bridge from the James White Greenway is the Neyland Greenway. This paved, multiuse trail travels west

Across the First Creek Bridge from the James White Greenway is the Neyland Greenway. This paved, multiuse trail travels west along Knoxville's industrial riverfront. There are several at-grade crossings where the trail switches from one side of Neyland Dr. to the other. A second bridge sits over the mouth of Third Creek as it meets the Tennessee River. The trail ends near the Alcoa Highway on-ramp.

Aside from being a scenic ride, the Neyland Trail connects to a number of destinations including the University of Tennessee Soccer Complex, UT Experimental Garden, UT Veterinary School and Crescent Bend Home and Garden. It also connects to the Third Creek Greenway which follows the creek upstream.
