The Mesquite Heritage Trail is billed as the city's "largest recreation facility". The multi-use path encourages residents to get out and get active – whether walking, rolling or riding. Trail users can also step off the trail to work out at the exercise station provided at Palos Verde Lake Park. The winding concrete pathway is also a safe commuting alternative, as it connects neighborhoods to a slew of amenities including schools, shopping and parks.

The trail kicks off at Towne Centre Dr. & Franklin Dr. and heads northeast to its endpoint at the westbound I-30 frontage road, right next to Northwest Dr. There are multiple at-grade road crossings, as well as a pedestrian bridge over North Mesquite Creek in Kimbrough Park.
