The Legacy Loop is a ten-mile system of greenways ringing around downtown Colorado Springs. The trails serve to highlight the waterways and picturesque landscape that are such a core part of the city's identity. It was the natural beauty of the area that partly drew the city's founder, General William Jackson Palmer, to settle here, and those natural assets were central to his vision for the city. The Loop seeks to honor that legacy.

The Legacy Loop comprises three trails:

- Pikes Peak Greenway Trail
- Shooks Run Trail
- Rock Island Trail

There's also a primary trailhead - Legacy Plaza, the
