Jacksonville's Northbank Riverwalk offers scenic views of the St. John's River and the city skyline. It's also part of a larger effort called the Emerald Trail, which will connect 14 miles of trail throughout Jacksonville. Beginning at the Fuller Warren Bridge in the Brooklyn neighborhood of the city, the pathway heads east, offering convenient access to restaurants and other businesses, the YMCA and Sidney J. Gefen Riverwalk Park. The park includes a kayak launch and you may even spot a manatee as you paddle through the water.
