The Sims Bayou Greenway, sometimes referred to as the Sims Bayou Hike and Bike Trail, is a developing trail through the neighborhoods of southern Houston, connecting residents with parks and recreational amenities, as well as opportunities to enjoy nature. The trail offers a few disconnected segments, but plans are in the works to connect and expand those sections.

The eastern end of the greenway begins at Galveston Road near the confluence of Sims Bayou and Berry Bayou. From there, the paved path travels along the south side of Sims Bayou through Glenbrook Park and along its golf course before ending near I-45. The trail picks up again on the other side of the interstate, this time following the north side of the bayou to Reveille Park, which offers picnic tables, a public pool, and a put-in spot for canoes and kayaks.

Heading west, the trail is now nestled in the grassy expanse between the south bank of Sims Bayou and Airport Boulevard. Frequent tree buffers keep the experience pleasant as the trail winds through quiet residential areas with the occasional business dotting the route. It ends across the street from Woodson Middle School.

The trail also passes through Townwood Park on the Buffalo Speedway. The popular park offers a community center, pool, and playground. The northernmost stretch of trail runs along Reveille Park, Glenbrook Park, and the Houston Botanic Gardens before ending at Charles H. Milby Park.
