With vistas of the Catskill Mountains and a vast blue lake, the Ashokan Reservoir Promenade is a stunner. The paved pathway begins in Olivebridge, a hamlet in southeastern New York, and spans just shy of 3 miles along the reservoir's southern shoreline. Along the way, you might see bald eagles or deer on the forested slopes that surround the trail. Leave your pet home as there are no dogs allowed on the Promenade.

Travelers can also explore the north side of the reservoir on the nearby Ashokan Rail Trail, where dogs are welcome.
