The Tennessee Riverwalk, which traverses the Tennessee Riverpark, will ultimately stretch 22 miles from downtown Chattanooga near the Tennessee Aquarium to the TVA Dam and out to Moccasin Bend National Archaeological District (additional loops included in the mileage).

For now, 16 miles of the riverwalk are open and follow the south bank of the Tennessee River. A footbridge on the west end (near John Ross Bridge/Market St./SR 8 takes you to the north bank and Coolidge Park.

The trail also connects to the South Chickamauga Creek Greenway, which offers 12 miles of trail alongside a wooded creek through eastern Chattanooga and the community of East Ridge.
