lane road.

The Massey Draw Regional Trail, located in the southern suburbs of Denver, connects the longer Columbine Trail to a series of local parks and amenities. This quiet, pleasant concrete path takes you from the eastern edge of the community of Columbine across a series of residential neighborhoods, utilizing a greenbelt corridor that hosts a variety of recreational activities. Columbine Hills Park and the adjacent Columbine Sports Park offer playgrounds and baseball fields, as well as your best bet for parking, while Wayside Meadows Park provides more of a scenic atmosphere. The trail ends at W David Dr at S Wadsworth Blvd, although users can continue their journey on a sidepath along the street to take them to a large shopping center to the south. Trail users should exercise caution when crossing S Pierce Street, as there is currently no crosswalk where the trail traverses this four-
