Will Rogers Trail

Oklahoma

Will Rogers Trail is an urban, non-motorized, multi-use pathway in Oklahoma City. The trail, together with the West River Trail and the will pass Will Rogers Park at N Grand Ave., pass Linwood Elementary on 16th Street, and skirt State Fair Park about 2 miles north of the trail's endpoint. The trail intersects with the Oklahoma River Trails east of May Ave.

Will Rogers Trail is an urban, non-motorized, multi-use pathway in Oklahoma City. The trail, together with the West River Trail and the planned Lake Draper Trail, are part of a wider initiative to improve the quality of life for residents of the city. The trail closes the 8-mile gap between the Bert Cooper Trails at Lake Hefner and the Oklahoma River Trails, allowing for one safe, continuous ride.

Beginning at the northern endpoint off of the Lake Hefner trails on Meridian Ave. use the crosswalk across the NW Expressway and continue heading south on Meridian Avenue, then pivot east when you come to NW 63rd St. Head southeast alongside the NW Expressway, then south again on Portland Ave. You will find this sequence of south-east repeats as you travel, but it's not jarring.
